

NOMAN ABSAR, MD

Assistant Physician-in-Chief and Director, Intensive Care Unit
Vallejo Medical Center

I spend many hours every day, and often many nights, in the Vallejo hospital and I couldn't be happier about it. The hospital is where I believe I can make my greatest contribution to our patients.

Even after all these years, I am still deeply moved to see a patient who has been fighting for life finally go home with renewed health and hope.

My goal is to make sure our patients get exactly the right care at the right time, and I'm always on the lookout for anything that may affect clinical quality or patient safety and satisfaction.

When members are taken to other hospitals, particularly in emergency situations, my priority is to get them back into one of our Vallejo beds where I believe they belong and where their care will be of the highest quality.

Being in the hospital can be an emotional experience for patients and loved ones. Making that time easier is my ultimate reward.

"EVERY PATIENT IN THE VALLEJO HOSPITAL IS MY RESPONSIBILITY."
