Physicians never stop learning and building on what they know, and no one is more committed to continuing medical education than Harley Goldberg, DO.

While Chief of Education in the 1990s, he helped develop a core curriculum for primary care providers in many specialty areas. He’s been a leader in establishing spine care clinics throughout the Region and organizing their CME components. He’s also developed CME programs in complementary and alternative medicine at local and regional levels.

As chair of the Musculoskeletal Medicine Redesign initiative, he helped develop two CME programs to support this new service, one for non-surgical musculoskeletal medicine specialists and one for primary care physicians.

Dr. Goldberg’s body of work has significantly improved care for members throughout Northern California.
